THE CONTEST DECIDED

Crisp, of Georgia is Elected Speaker

AMIDST A STORM OF APPLAUSE.

The Newly Elected Officials Sworn in.

The Fifty-Second Congress Ready for Business.

The Contest Proceeds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The Democratic Senators at caucus this morning unanimously elected Senator Gorman Chairman, and Senator Faulkner Secretary of the caucus for the ensuing term of Congress.

Immediately after the reading of the journal, oaths were administered to Jones of Arkansas, (re-elected) Dubois of Idaho, and Call of Florida.

The papers in the matter of the credentials of Davidson, claiming Call's seat, were referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, with instructions to report at an early day. Like reference was made of the papers in the case of Claggett, claiming the seat of Dubois. The Senate then took a recess till 2 P. M.

Another recess was taken to 3 o'clock, after appointing Sherman and Harris as a committee to join the House committee to visit the President.

At 3:30 the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

HOUSE.

When the House convened this morning there was a large crowd present. At noon Clerk McPherson called that body to order, and on motion of Holman the election of a Speaker was proceeded with. Holman placed in nomination Charles F. Crisp of Georgia; Henderson of Illinois, nominated Thomas B. Reed, with applause on the Republican side; Simpson, of Kansas, nominated Thomas Watson, of Georgia. A Teller was appointed, and the balloting commenced.

The roll call resulted: Crisp 228, Reed 83, Watson 8. Mills and Springer were heartily applauded when they recorded their votes for Crisp.

The clerk having announced the result, declared Crisp duly elected Speaker amidst a storm of applause. The clerk then appointed Mills and Reed as a committee to escort the newly elected Speaker to the chair, an appointment that received an applause not unmarked with laughter for a few minutes. Crisp entered with Mills and Reed supporting an arm, and on his march down the aisle there was a perfect ovation; the Democrats on mass rising and giving him cheer after cheer, and the Republican members rising also.

When quiet was secured Crisp said: "Gentlemen of the House of Representatives, for the great honor you have conferred upon me I return my heartfelt thanks. I shall endeavor to discharge the duties of the office of Speaker with courtesy and firmness and with impartiality. [Applause.] Let us unite in the hope that our labors, absolutely labors, here may result in an advancement of the prosperity, honor and glory of our beloved country. [Applause.] I am now ready to take office."

The oath of office having been administered by Holman of Indiana, the work of swearing in members of the Fifty-second Congress began. When this was concluded, the resolution for the appointment of Kerr for Clerk, Yoder for Sergeant-at-Arms, Turner for Doorkeeper, and Dalton for Postmaster will be present d.

Henderson of Illinois offered as a substitute, a resolution for the appointment of the present officers with the exception of Chaplain, for which office Charles B. Ramsdell was named. This was agreed to.

Holman's resolution was agreed to, with an amendment by Springer for the appointment of William Milburn as Chaplain. The newly elected officers were then sworn in.

On motion of Holman, the clerk was directed to inform the Senate that the House had elected its Speaker, and a quorum being present, it was now ready for the transaction of business.

The Speaker appointed Blount, Reed and Breckinridge of Kentucky as a committee to join a similar one from the Senate to inform the President that Congress was in session with a quorum present.

A resolution was adopted, requesting the Speaker to appoint committees on rules, accounts, enrolled bills and mileage, each to consist of the same number of members as the Fiftyeth Congress.

Referring to the last Congress, the Committee on Rules ordered that the daily hour of meeting of the House shall be 12 o'clock.

The House then proceeded to the drawing for seats. The resolution, the effect of which was to permit Reed, Holman, and O'Neill of Pennsylvania to select their seats in advance was adopted.

At the conclusion of the call the House adjourned.

In the caboose of the construction train were thirty-four men, and not one of them escaped injury. Four were killed and nineteen others dangerously hurt, some of them fatally. Many neighboring farmers were quickly on the scene of the disaster and did everything in their power to alleviate the sufferings of the injured. Proceedings in the Graves' Murder Case in Denver.

Extent of the Recent Storms on the Pacific Coast.

Murder Trial in Denver.

By Associated Press.

DENVER, Dec. 8.—The trial of Dr. Graves charged with the murder of Mrs. Barnaby was resumed to-day. District Attorney Stevens made the opening address. He gave a graphic account of Mrs. Barnaby's life from the time of her marriage, her friendship for Graves and the final misunderstanding, her unfortunate trip west and her death in this city. He then proceeded to show the jury upon what facts and circumstances he relied for the conviction of the defendant. He said: "It is a fact, which we will establish to your satisfaction, that at the time of Mrs. Barnaby reaching Denver on this last fatal trip, it was her intention to take from Dr. Graves all the property and money in his control and invest it in business in this city, and that she also was seriously thinking of changing her will and cutting off Graves, who was a beneficiary to the extent of $25,000 and was also drawing a salary from her of $5,000. We are prepared to prove that the package containing the fatal bottle was mailed in Boston, stamped with stamps purchased in Providence, and it is evident that this was done for the purpose of misleading the recipient; the address and inscription on the package is in a disguised hand-writing which we are satisfied we will be able to prove to you is in the hand of Dr. Graves." Stevens concluded, "We will show you, gentlemen, that Graves is the only person in the world who could have any motive for the destruction of this lady. We will show by circumstantial evidence, that this bottle of Fowler's solution was prepared and mailed by the defendant. We propose this prosecution shall stand upon its merits without regard to what defense is interposed."

What the Message Will Contain.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—A Washington special says: The President's coming message to Congress will have one sensational feature; the Chilian chapter will be the most vigorous utterance that has been contained in an Executive message for a long while. It will show that the seriousness of the situation has at no time been underestimated by the President and Secretary Blaine. There will be no hint of the recalling of Minister Egan; if anything is to be said on that point it will be more likely a word of praise than anything else. The question on which the President wants to give Congress the fullest information relates to the attack on the sailors of the Baltimore, and the unsatisfactory action of the Chilian government. The difference between that attack and the New Orleans lynching will be fully explained, and then a hint will be given that it may yet become necessary to present an ultimatum to the Chilian government. Every naval commandant in the United States has received instructions to fit out and put in commission all sea-going men of war lying in American waters, and the result is that a powerful fleet now have their bows turned toward the south. President Harrison points out to Congress the steps which it may be necessary for the United States to take in order to insure a reparation, making which three-fold; indemnity for the outrage, punishment for the offenders, and an apology to the flag insulted.

EMIN PASHA has been heard from again, and he has been so busy bug-hunting—in the strictly scientific sense—that he has paid little attention to politics, and really doesn't know to whom he belongs. German jealousy has been aroused by the gallant entomologist's uncertainty as to the nationality to which he should communicate his discoveries and collection of butterflies; and in Berlin and Hamburg he has already been accused of a desire to set up an Equatorial empire for himself, where he could found the largest museum of insects ever established. And it is quite on the cards that the Germans may be sending an armed force on his track—to prevent the loss to the Fatherland of all that Emin has acquired, both territory and eccentric bugs.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York World credits a German military man of high standing with the statement that Count Wildersee will take Van Melle's place in the next war, and will invade Russia from Cronstadt by sea, while another army operates on the land frontier. This is about as sensible as a great many other World sensations. It is safe to assume that no German military man of high standing would entertain such a ridiculous idea as that of dashing a fleet and army against perhaps the strongest forces in Europe, besides the opposition of the Russian fleet, which is superior to that of Germany, while the whole land frontier lies open with a choice route for military operations.

PATRIOTIC Canadians are wont to ridicule the assertion that young people are leaving the Dominion for the United States precisely as the young abandon New England for the West, but facts from Toronto show that it is true as far as Ontario is concerned. There are 5,000 vacant houses in Toronto, and from the city as well as the province young men and women are coming over the border by thousands. Nothing but sentiment keeps them in Canada, while every inducement of future success and competence is held out by the United States.

THE President has suggested to the heads of the departments that records be kept showing the faithfulness and efficiency of each clerk, which records shall be regarded as a test of merit in making promotions, instead of an examination. The suggestion is in the line of practical improvement of the Civil Service. A clerk's merit depends upon what he can do and has done, rather than what he can tell about his business. Many a worse clerk might pass the better examination.

THE attempt of some of our Democratic contemporaries to connect the U. S. Branch Mint at Carson with the alleged crookedness of the Nevada Mill Co. in its treatment of Hale and Norcross is a little less than contemptible. It is surprising that the Democratic party has not been intrusted with the reins of government, when its organs resort to such subterfuges to gain favor with the people?

BUSINESS promises to be better in Nevada in 1892 than for many years. The crops have been prolific and have sold for fair prices, money is comparatively easy, the live stock interests are looking up, and taking it all in all, the outlook is encouraging.

HON. CHARLES F. CRISP of Georgia was elected late yesterday afternoon on the thirtieth ballot Speaker of the House of Representatives. His election is a victory for the Tammany wing of the Democratic party.

FEARS are entertained by the cringing hangers-on that if the suit is persisted in against the Hale and Norcross that the mines on the Comstock will shut down.

WITHIN about two weeks San Bernardino county has paid $798 in bounties on 3,172 dead jack-rabbits.

IN A CANDY FACTORY.

How Many of the Toothsome Morals Are Made.

A reporter visited one of our large candy factories recently, says the Chicago News, to see how the luscious bonbons are made. He found that in the manufacture of the best candies sugar is used only as a basis just as flour is the basis of cake. While we pay forty cents a pound for fruit cake, we know that flour is cheap and that it is the other ingredients and the labor that make the cake expensive and delicious. It is the same way with the candy. The ingredients used are sugar as a foundation mixed with powdered nuts, fruit, jellies, jams and often chocolate to give the candy its delicious flavor. The best confectioners use no flavoring extracts with the exception of vanilla.

Caramels, that delight of every woman's palate, were being made in huge kettles, sugar, chocolate and cream being the ingredients. Men were doing the cooking and constantly stirring the brown mass in the kettles until it was done. Then it was poured out on long marble tables, and when cool enough cut with a big roller armed with circular blades. Then a little boy and girl deftly wrapped each caramel in oiled paper and the caramel was ready for an epicure. On other long marble tables men were creaming, working, pulling and pouring into molds the various candies. Little heart-shaped and various other shaped molds were lined with starch (just as molds for iron are lined with sand) before the candy was poured into them.

The girls in the factory were kneading big batches of delicious nougat as they would dough, while others picked up some of a delicate green confection and rolled it with little paddles into dainty round mouthfuls. There were candies flavored with nuts and fruit and of a delicate pink color and others of a pretty shade of lilac. Some of the workers were making candy with apricot jelly for the principal ingredient, and the pieces when done were piled up in pyramids, to be taken downstairs and sold.

The busy workers were all scrupulously clean. They are required to be. A great amount of hand labor is required to make candy, the cost for work alone often being as high as ten cents a pound. The sale of chocolate candies has increased fifty per cent in the last eight years, for people are beginning to find them as wholesome as delicious. In the cheap factories most of the goods are sold to the hundreds of little retail candy stores all over town and to the cheap dry goods stores and little groceries. This candy is largely adulterated with terra alba (white clay), a process which is forbidden by law, but is nevertheless indulged in. Glucose is also used, but this is harmless. Well-to-do people will often buy this highly-colored, cheap, adulterated grade of candy for their children, who do not know the difference and for whom the parents seem to think the worst candy good enough.

EXPENSIVE HEATHEN.

It Costs About Six Million Dollars Apele to Convert Them.

Once upon a time—last year we believe it was—a religious convention was held at Saratoga, says Texas Siftings. Among the delegates was a brother who, besides being skillful in prayer, was not uninformative about mathematics. He had learned to cipher—not only to cipher for mansions beyond the skies, but to cipher out with a lead pencil how much things cost. He was, moreover, exceedingly fluent of speech. During the discussion about foreign missions he got up and spoke right out in meeting. He said excitedly that he had ciphered it out, and it cost six million dollars in hard cash for every cursed heathen that was converted. Then suddenly remembering where he was and whom addressing, he revised his remarks to read "every blessed heathen," whereupon the ecumenical conference drew a long breath and felt very much relieved, although some of the members have not yet quit giggling whenever the subject of the heathen question is brought up. Six millions for one heathen does seem to be a little steep, even to a journalist who is accustomed to deal with large sums. There are a great many good people who would rather take the six million dollars themselves, put it where it would do the most good, and then allow Satan to carry off that black "cuss." St. Paul in one of his literary efforts to the Romans says: "Ye were bought with a great price," but it would have made his eyes protrude like the optics of a sand crab to learn that it would cost six millions to loosen the grip of Satan on an ordinary Feejee Islander. For the price paid for one unsavory South Sea Islander a great deal of good might be accomplished right here at home, and much real suffering be relieved. We do not think that the white heathen should be ignored merely because he is white and lives in this country.

A Model Representative.

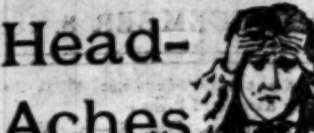

A gentleman spending a few days in Washington called on his congressman who is also his townsman. The conversation turning upon home matters and home people, the constituent asked if it was true that Mr. — a department clerk from their county, was going to marry an heiress. The congressman said the engagement had been announced. "Is it a love match?" asked the constituent, "or is he going to marry her for money?" "Going to marry her for money, of course," answered the congressman, "and he makes no secret of it, either. I heard him speak of her as his fiancée right out in a crowd the other day."

Clover Honey.

An enthusiast on the subject states that each head of clover is composed of about sixty distinct flower tubes, and each of these contains sugar not to exceed the five hundredth part of a grain. The proboscis of the honey bee must therefore be inserted into five hundred clover tubes before one grain of sugar can be obtained. There are seven thousand grains in a pound, and as honey contains three-fourths of its weight of dry sugar, each pound of clover honey would represent the insertion of the proboscis into two million five hundred flower tubes.
